

Ref. PD2012/002

Job Title	Postdoctoral researcher in Biomedical Nutrition
Location	Madrid, SPAIN
Job Category	Biomedical research/biochemistry/nutrition.
Job Description	Responsible for carrying out basic and applied, i.e. animals and humans research in the area of micronutrients and cardiovascular health. May serve as lab coordinator in one or more projects. Participates in the development of study protocols including participation in study design discussions. Develops research plans including grant proposal preparations and study protocols. Performs laboratory analyses, interprets statistical results, and prepares reports including integrated summaries for reports, manuscript and proposal submissions.
Qualifications	Demonstrate independence, pro-active attitude, professional and excellent communication skills both written and speaking. Has experience in molecular biology (cell culture and related techniques) and in animal and human trials. Ability to work independently on routine assignments, under supervision on new assignments. Ability to identify and resolve areas of concerns. Work with others as necessary. Demonstrate strong organizational skills, including the ability to prioritize workload. Authorship in peer-reviewed publications. Fluency in English. Fluency in Spanish a plus but not mandatory.
Education	PhD. in Biomedical Sciences such as (but not limited to) Biochemistry, Pharmacology, Biotechnology.